REPORT OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

As we have come to the close of another school year, we will endeavor to comply with the time-honored custom of giving an account of our "stewardship." Last year we had five schools and a term of six weeks in district No. 5. As we did not have a school there the other terms, several of the children went away to school. Our treasurer, Mr. Dame, and Mr. Hook had a misunderstanding about schooling his children, and your present chairman learned at the school-meeting for the first time that Mr. Hook had an unpaid bill of $48, and later still that Mr. J. F. French, Mr. Frank Towle, and Mr. Stanyan had each a bill of $15, Mr. Nathan Marden a bill of $13; there were also small bills due for wood and books. Now all of these bills should have been carried to the treasurer and paid before his accounts were audited. The money received from tax on dogs would not cover the bills. We had twelve weeks of school last winter, but if we had known the financial state of affairs, we certainly should have had less and paid the bills. Well, the money was not squandered, and the children in town had the benefit of it last winter and consequently less school this winter.

We found it necessary to make some repairs on several of the schoolhouses. The one in district No. 4 was not considered fit to have the winter term of school in, and was repaired at the expense of $39; the Bear Hill and Pine Ground houses cost $80 for repairs and furniture; the schoolhouse at Kelly's Corner and Centre were repaired at a cost of $10. A few more dollars to finish painting the house and repair a window at Bear Hill, a coat of whitewash on the one at Kelly's Corner, some slight repairs at No. 5, and our schoolhouses will all be in good repair and will not need much outlay for several years. We have had to furnish more books than usual; those that had been used eight years or since the town furnished books were sadly worn, and then we have more scholars than last year to supply. We also put in three complete charts; they were really the best thing we have ever seen to interest and instruct all classes. This report will help answer the question "Why didn't we have a longer school this winter?"

Now in regard to our schools: we have had some excellent teachers, and just as far as they have had the sympathy of the parents and the coöperation of the pupils, our schools have been successful. There has been a decided improvement in the moral development of all our schools. We have had less to contend with from those that have no personal interest in our schools. Would that the discordant elements might be forever subdued. We have spared no pains to make our schools interesting. Some of the best methods from schools in Massachusetts and from our New Hampshire villages have been presented to our teachers by your present chairman, and we are happy to say that many of them have been adopted. The illustrated lessons in grammar, the outline lessons in geography, and the lessons in physiology from the chart have made these studies very interesting and so plain that all can understand them.

In most of our districts the parents are interested in the education of their children, and show their interest by sending constantly and promptly to school, with the admonition to obey the rules of the teacher and learn all they can six hours in a day. I wish I could say this of all, but in some schools the scholars are very irregular in attendance; the registers show that they come in late and are dismissed by middle of the afternoon. This is an evil that should be remedied. Scholars, to make good improvement, must be punctual and constant in their attendance. If the parents would visit the school every term, they would know better how their children were getting along, and it would encourage the children to know that they are interested; it would also encourage the teacher. Our motto is "onward and upward." We would be glad to see all our schools reach a high standard, and they can if the parents will give their sympathy. We have five smart scholars in Chichester with talent enough to scale the summit of the "hill of science" — in fact there is not a school but has some genius that, with proper home discipline and the present facilities for laying a solid foundation for learning that is found in our schools, we may expect down in the future many of them will fill important positions in life and do credit to common schools.

We try to have every teacher explain and teach the bad effects of alcohol and narcotics on the human system, and warn every one never to indulge in their use.

I think I can say in truth that I have done all that I could possibly do for the interest of every scholar and the general improvement of every school. We have tried to have faithful teachers and well disciplined schools. No one in town regretted having the schools close so soon more than we did; certainly we would have been glad to have had as long a school this winter as we did last, but we have tried to do what under the circumstances we thought was for the best.

District No. 1 school was taught by Miss Georgia L. Powell. She has taught this school eight terms and has given general satisfaction. During the past year the school has been broken on account of sickness; measles, scarlatina, tonsilitis and fevers made many absent from school. Those that could attend made good improvement—one boy went through Greenleaf's Complete Arithmetic and two girls went most through, there was good improvement also in grammar, some of the small ones made remarkable improvement in reading.

No. 2, Mrs. Jennie Perkins commenced this school. When we visited it we found it well organized, both teacher and scholars were interested and working finely but Mrs. Perkins was sick and had to give up the school in less than two weeks, much to the regret of all concerned; Miss Grace Pettengill finished the school. The fall and winter term was taught by Miss Mabel Stevens. These teachers were young, and this was their first attempt at teaching, but they were well qualified for the work and had very good success. Perhaps Miss Pettengill was the most strict in government, but there was good improvement made in all the classes. The last week of the winter term several of the scholars were sick with colds, but those present at the examination did finely. Experience will make them both fine teachers.

School in district No. 4, the summer term was taught by Miss Edna Brown, the fall term by Miss Georgia Fowler. They were both young teachers, but we think they kept very good schools; we found them quiet and orderly and the recitations prompt. We think experience will place them with our best teachers. The winter term was taught by Mrs. Clara J. Little. She is a lady of superior attainments, has had great experience in teaching, is a fine disciplinarian and very thorough; we found perfect order, perfect recitations, in fact a model school. The faithful labors of this teacher were fully appreciated in this school.

District No. 5, summer term was taught by Miss Mabel Knowles. This was her first school. She had but five scholars at our first visit and seemed to try to teach them but it was hard to interest the small ones. At our second visit we found only three present—one of those came in after our first visit, really we had only two to judge the school by; they had made good improvement. The fall and winter term was taught by Miss Lennie Towle. This was likewise her first school and she proved a most excellent teacher. She had seven scholars and many very interesting exercises for them. One little boy scarcely five years old, who read every lesson from the chart both in type and script and spelled every word, was very smart. There was great improvement made by all that were constant in their attendance.

District No. 6, the summer term was taught by Mrs. Clara J. Little. She was the same faithful teacher that taught No. 4 and kept a most excellent school here. The fall and winter term was taught by Miss Lilla McKerley. She labored hard to control the school and to teach the scholars, but they were so irregular in their attendance that it was really discouraging. Those that attended school as they should made good improvement. There are some remarkably good scholars in this school, we found here two of the most advanced scholars in town.

No. 7, the summer term was taught by Miss Lilla McKerley. She had a very good school here—good improvement and general satisfaction. The fall and winter term was taught by Miss Alice

E. Connor. This was her first experience in teaching and she had very good success. We found here the best drilled classes in arithmetic and some of the best readers in town. One little girl learned the alphabet in the fall term and during that and the winter term she read through the First Reader and at the closing examination read well in the Second Reader. Another little girl was learning just about as fast but was taken sick and had to leave school. There are some of the best scholars in town and a few idle ones that no teacher we have employed has been able to get interested in their books. I pity a dull scholar that tries to learn but have no patience with an idler.
